Shark Cage Diving - Being lowered down into the water in the cage with the sharks swimming around is one of the most breath-taking experiences you will ever live to remember. The sharks are very curious and may come close-up to the cage, taking a closer look at the diver and may occasionally brush their tail against the cage, but they will never attack the cage.

Hermanus Whales

Walker Bay is the breeding ground of the Southern Right Whale, returning each year to meet with the same mate. The whale 'crier' sounds his kelp horn to announce where whales have been sighted. The whales can be seen from the cliffs in the town centre as early as June and usually depart in early December.
